PRESIDENT'S CORNER

G reetings from the Kennedy Heights Community Council! Fall is here and with the changing season we reflect on what we are grateful for.

We had a beautiful Progressive Dinner celebration, a (G)Litter Magic Clean-Up Day, and our neighborhood was highlighted by Invest In Neighborhoods for our collaboration with our next door neighbors in Pleasant Ridge to address the violence we had over the summer.

We've continued to partner with Pleasant Ridge on various efforts such as the 2013 Candidate Night and the District-A Festival. We look forward to more opportunities to work together in ways that will mutually benefit both our neighborhoods. We will hold elections for trustee positions on the Kennedy Heights Community Council Board on Tuesday November 19. We need your involvement—neighbors willing to volunteer their time for important neighborhood initiatives!

As always, we encourage you to come to the council meetings and get involved! Community Council meetings meet the third Tuesday of each month at the Presbyterian Church at 6312 Kennedy Ave. The meetings start at 7:30 PM and end promptly at 8:30 followed by meet-andgreet time. See you there!

INTRODUCING NEXTDOOR

or all who have access to a computer, there is a new way to connect with neighbors using the Nextdoor website, which the City of Cincinnati is now making available to all neighborhoods including Kennedy Heights. It is a free service that allows you to get in touch with your neighbors for just about any reason such as to offer free plants to your neighbors, ask about reputable service representatives, discuss community-wide issues, find a new home for an outgrown bike, and more.

Enter https://nextdoor.com in your browser, and a box will appear to "Find your neighborhood". Enter your email address, house address, and then click the "Get started-it's free" box.

You choose the boundaries that you want and can include other neighborhoods besides Kennedy Heights in "your" neighborhood. You can also invite other neighbors to join.

The Nextdoor website contains privacy and safety features. Each person must verify their address and give their actual name. Your website is securely encrypted using the HTTPS Internet protocol. Information that you share will never show up in Google or other search engines. Nextdoor never shares your personal information with third-party advertisers.

Neighborhood guidelines include: respecting others by being honest, authentic, and straightforward in all actions; showing tolerance to others, even if you don't share similar opinions; and not sharing posts from the website without the author's permission.

Over 14,000 neighborhoods across the U.S. already use the Nextdoor website. Here's to a useful tool for you, and for Kennedy Heights!

WINTERFEST 2013: A CELEBRATION FOR THE SEASON!

ark your calendars! In the spirit of the season, a traditional neighborhood celebration is here to light up your holidays. The Kennedy Heights and Pleasant Ridge communities will host the ninth annual Winterfest on Friday December 6 from 6:00–9:00 PM

Winterfest is packed with free and exciting activities for the entire family at several locations. Come for part or all of the celebration. All are welcome!

The festival kicks off with a tree lighting ceremony at the Pleasant Ridge Community Center (5915 Ridge Avenue) at 6:00 PM. Families will enjoy festive games, crafts and entertainment inside the gym at the community center. Children will even have the opportunity to visit with jolly-old Santa Claus!

Then head to the Kennedy Heights Arts Center (6546 Montgomery Road) to continue the celebration from 7:00– 9:00 PM. Visitors can view our winter art exhibition in the gallery, listen to holiday music by local choirs, and enjoy tasty desserts and beverages. You can even do some holiday shopping. The show features jewelry, pottery, photography, paintings, glass, and fiber works from local artists perfect for gift-giving.

While at the Arts Center, children can make handmade ornaments in the art studio, and everyone is invited to gather 'round the piano for carol singing with charismatic musician Todd Hepburn.

Winterfest would not take place every year without the generous support of our sponsors. A big thanks to the Cincinnati Recreation Commission (Pleasant Ridge Center), Kennedy Heights Arts Center and Kennedy Heights Community Council and Pleasant Ridge Community Council.

If you want to volunteer at or donate a dessert to Kennedy Heights Winterfest, please contact Christine Schumacher at christine@ kennedyheights.org or 513-351-8785 by Monday November 25. For more general information about Winterfest, please call 631-4278 (KHAC) or 731-7894 (Pleasant Ridge Community Center).

2013 PROGRESSIVE DINNER A SUCCESS!

beautiful fall evening was the backdrop for another fun-filled Kennedy Heights Progressive Dinner on Saturday September 28. More than 100 neighbors gathered at the Kennedy Heights Arts Center to enjoy music by local jazz ensemble Stardust Trio and delicious appetizers from Maggiano's. Twelve host families welcomed neighbors into their homes to share a delicious meal before everyone headed over to the Kennedy Heights Presbyterian Church for the Silent Auction and dessert portion of the evening. The 2013 Landscape Award Winners received recognition and a special honor was given to Susan Wade-Murphy who spearheaded this summer's successful "Play in the Park" events.

If you were unable to attend this year or have never gotten involved in the Progressive Dinner, it is an evening not to miss. Please consider becoming a host family or an event planner, or donating a silent auction item. It is not only one of the biggest "fun"–raisers of the Community Council, it is also a wonderful way to meet your neighbors and connect with the Kennedy Heights community. Special thanks to Jayne Dressing, Jody Barkley, Bob Kamp, Ellen Muse-Lindeman, Lydia and Noel Morgan, Christine Schumacher and Hal Hess, Sarah Stamper, B.J. Gardner, Carren Herring, Dana and Tracie Bateman, David and Lois Patterson, Clete and Ann Benken, Joe Feldhaus and Marcheta Gillam, David and Susan Donnett, Pat and MaryAnne Romanello, Kate Kern, Natalie Boyer, Kennedy Heights Arts Center, and Kennedy Heights Presbyterian Church.

2013 KENNEDY HEIGHTS LANDSCAPE AWARD WINNERS

n late August, the Kennedy Heights Beautification Committee—headed by Annette Delaney—evaluated nine landscape nominees. While they were all beautiful, the following four emerged as the 2013 winners.

WENDA WADE (VALLEY VIEW)

As you drive or walk past Wenda's house, the well-maintained borders of shrubs-which are accented with large stones-catch the eye. Wenda, who has lived in Kennedy Heights for three years, hired landscape designer Chris Carpenter to design and install the borders. However, Wenda has also given the garden her own personal touch by using colorful flower pots. She is always looking for new color combinations to try, and she has had good luck storing her pots in the garage during winter. Some of the tender perennials survive and come back bigger and prettier the next season.

Wenda's tip for a beautiful garden is to use a lot of mulch. By doing so, she only has a little bit of weeding and watering to do once a week. Her reward for her time spent in the garden is sitting on her porch or patio with a glass of wine and enjoying the beauty.

MARY BETH POULIMENOS (SKYLINE)

Mary Beth moved to Kennedy Heights seven years ago. She spent 2007 redoing the garden and by 2008, she had transformed it into a lush display of about 70% annuals and tropicals and 30% perennials and shrubs. She loves the constant color of annuals and the striking foliage of such tropicals as King Tut grass and elephant ears (she uses four different varieties). For accent, she tucks pots of colorful plants among the established beds.

Congratulations to all our 2013 Landscape Award winners!

In her backyard, she tends a small garden of vegetables and 15 varieties of herbs that she uses for cooking and for bouquets. As the season winds down, she stores the tropicals in the garage or basement, but she makes up for the decline of flowers and foliage with seasonal accents. Last year, her display included pumpkins that were painted silver, black, or purple.

Mary Beth's advice to new gardeners is to not be afraid of experimentation. Try a plant that you've never used before. Choose a different color scheme each year. Get creative and try something wild like painting a plain orange pumpkin metallic silver. And who knows? You may become a landscape award winner.

HAL HESS (WYATT)

Hal and his wife, Christine Schumacher, moved to Kennedy Heights in 1975. Over the years, his garden has evolved to include shady borders of (continued on page 6)

perennials in the backyard and borders of sun-loving perennials in the front of the house. He has even beautified his tree lawn with perennial plantings around the trees and along the curb.

Hal strives to have a mix of perennials so that a few plants are in bloom throughout the growing season. If a plant grows too exuberantly and starts crowding out its neighbors, he is not afraid to pull it out and try something else. As a result, his garden always looks well-maintained with spots of color throughout.

The huge red oak in his backyard prevents Hal from growing a vegetable garden on his property, so he raises his crops in his neighbor's backyard. He grows seven varieties of potatoes, 30 varieties of tomatoes, and peppers, beans, peas, and lettuce. So far this year he has donated 500 pounds of his harvest to The Caring Place.

Hal's advice for a successful garden is to take the time to improve the clay soil. Initially, till in as much organic matter (such as shredded leaves or mulch) as you can and then continue to use mulch each year. Hal's gardens attest to the success of this method.

ALLY AND DAVID NURRE (WYATT)

Ally and David started their garden as a joint effort ten years ago. David built the hardscape, including retaining walls, two arbors, a deck, and pond, while Ally has focused on the plantings. She likes to use annuals and native perennials in a free-form, English cottage garden style. Ally has also installed a much-used herb garden outside the kitchen door. The couple's future plans include the expansion of the back garden to include more native perennials and beekeeping. (They already have a hive that is set up and ready for bees).

For Ally, gardening has many pleasures. She is "overjoyed" with the perennials that come up year after year, as they reflect the continuity of years of living in the community. She likes to give plants to her neighbors and in turn enjoys receiving plants from them. As she observes, "flowers build neighbors."
